CLUB SHOWCASE

TWELVE ATTRACTIONS WHOSE PRICE IS NO MORE THAN $1,250 ARE SELECTED FOR THIS SHOWCASE. Prices for single date may be exclusive of travel, but all block prices must include travel. Club showcases include musical attractions, comedy, novelty and other artists. Attractions are listed in alphabetical order, not in the order in which they appear. Alternates are listed in priority order, in the event that any of the attractions are unable to appear. For the artists listed, pricing information includes the attraction's regular non-Convention price, followed by Block Booking pricing. All Block Booking pricing categories indicate the base contract fee and any additional expenses required (sound, lights room, meals and/or travel). Some states may require the withholding of taxes from contract fees paid to artists. Check with artist representative to determine if prices listed include applicable tax withholdings. NACA makes no representation regarding such withholdings.

BABES @Babesband APA Music

"We're horny. And we're sad." Singer/keyboardist Sarah Rayne makes it abundantly clear that the hormonally charged pop music of Babes is simply an extension of the hormonally charged people who make it—herself, along with birth brothers Aaron and Zach and figurative blood brothers Bryan Jeffrey and Jeffrey John. And while their music encompasses the past five decades of pop music—from Brill Building to the grimmest Los Angeles punk basements—Babes recognize "horny" and "sad" as the two core impulses from which 99% of all great art is derived. Babes' self-titled EP on Harvest Records is the culmination of experiences, combining punk irreverence with the kind of gold-standard professionalism you'd get from Oliver: The Musical. "We feel not a lot of people are talking about how life sucks and it's lonely and hurts ... but once you realize that, you can say 'now let's just have fun!'"

BRENT & CO. @Brentandco Brent & Co.

After an exciting first year of NACA participation in which the Brent & Co. acoustic trio was selected for three regional showcases (NACA® Northeast, Mid-America and South) and performed 30 college shows, we're excited to introduce the Brent & Co. quartet. Proudly self-represented, Brent & Co. enjoys working with schools of every size to cost-effectively put on great programming with a sound malleable enough to work well in settings ranging from coffeehouses to clubs. With a song mix of intriguing covers and refreshing originals, there is something for everyone in the audience. By including full lighting and sound production with all their shows, a performance with Brent & Co. makes excellent programming easy on your mind and your budget!

• Contestant on NBC's The Voice, Season 4. • Opener for Eric Hutchinson, Owl City, and Dave Barnes. Influenced by both the soulful roots of classic R&B and the spontaneity of the modern singer/songwriter, Dustin's debut album captures the passion and commitment of a young musician dedicated to the craft. Born a natural instrumentalist, Dustin taught himself piano, guitar and ukulele, all while fostering his innate gift of vocal range and melody, drawing comparisons to artists like John Legend, Gavin DeGraw and Jason Mraz. The Minnesota native has been playing shows in his hometown of Minneapolis for years, and has acquired a devoted following while transitioning swiftly from energetic opener to established headlining performer. Since the 2012 release of his debut album, Fall, Dustin has played shows with Eric Hutchinson and Dave Barnes, and was featured in the nationwide Macy's iHeartRadio "Rising Star" Campaign.

Ella Mae Bowen is a powerful new voice in the world of country music. Although just 18, Ella Mae's voice has been described by Entertainment Weekly as having "an urgency beyond her years." Hailing from Walhalla, SC, Ella Mae began writing and performing her own songs at age seven before moving to Nashville. In fact, of 20,000 entries from over 120 countries, Ella Mae won first prize for her song "This Is What It Feels Like" in the Unsigned Artist category, as well as honorable mention for Best Country Song, "His Name Was Sam," from the 2014 International Songwriting Competition. Her commanding voice and honest songwriting earned her the support of artists such as Hunter Hayes, Emmylou Harris and Keith Urban, who called her "a beautiful blend of bold soul and human fragility. Add that to a natural born songwriter, and you've got true artistry ... and she's just getting started!"

A former Assistant Director with the University of Georgia, Marc grew up in Pensacola, FL. He started doing stand-up in college, but stepped away from the stage after graduation to work as a university advisor. While Marc enjoyed working with his students, he missed performing and was soon back on stage entertaining audiences. Armed with a unique charm and generally ridiculous outlook on life, Marc's comedy career is catching people's attention. Most recently, he was named to the Hot Comedy 2013 list in Campus Activities Magazine. He's performed at the San Luis Obispo Comedy Festival, been seen on the Cartoon Network and in the movie The Spectacular Now. Incorporating real-life stories with his entertaining physical humor, Marc has quickly emerged as a favorite on the college circuit. He's showcased at the NACA® Central, Northeast and West regional conferences. www.marclamotte.com

Matt McClowry is not your typical stand-up comic. A tall, clean-cut comic originally from Detroit, he has overcome a childhood diagnosis of Asperger's Syndrome to use his sharp wit to wow audiences. While Asperger's might seem like an insurmountable obstacle to successfully performing stand-up, as its symptoms seem incompatible with the skill set required to make a crowd of strangers laugh, Matt is an able and confident performer, laconically delivering observations about a host of modern absurdities in a deep, distinctive deadpan. Matt has been gaining national exposure recently with club, college and festival appearances from coast to coast, including an impressive third place finish at the World Series of Comedy in Las Vegas. You might never know he had Asperger's Syndrome if he didn't talk about it onstage.

TIM MONTANA AND THE SHREDNECKS

Tim was raised in Montana and lived "off the grid" with no electricity. Given his first guitar at six, he had to teach himself how to play by candlelight. His father wouldn't allow him to compete in talent shows, so Tim would sneak his guitar out the window to play. Tim's unique sound found a following. At one of his performances, Tim got a break. David Letterman was in the audience and had his talent booker invite him to appear on The Late Show. Tim Montana and The Shrednecks are now based in Nashville. His song "This Beard Came Here to Party" with ZZ Top's Billy F. Gibbons became the anthem for the 2013 Boston Red Sox World Series and the video the most viewed on the MLB websites. Tim Montana and The Shrednecks have shared the stage with Brantley Gilbert and Kid Rock with a killer live show.

Two Worlds is a pop music duo consisting of 20-year-old vocalists Nick Voelker and Adiel Mitchell. With their fun concepts and catchy hooks, Two Worlds infuses their background of acoustic R&B with the energetic pop they love to perform. Along with their originals, Two Worlds has released many innovative covers on their YouTube channel. With over 3.5 million views, their channel continues to grow as they move forward spreading their carefree nature through their young, but dense music. They recently were selected to perform as finalists on VH1's Make a Band Famous, and their version of Pharrell's "Happy" cracked the Top 20 on the iTunes Singer/Songwriter chart.

"Is that your real name?" is a question Zoltan Kaszas has heard since he and his mother moved to the USA in 1991. In 2006, he started doing stand-up comedy to raise awareness that sometimes people you meet aren't going to be named "John" or "Steve." Over the years, Zoltan has developed a unique storytelling style that has brought smiles and belly laughs to people across the country and has been able to win numerous comedy contests: 2013 Seattle International Comedy Competition, 2014 San Diego Comedy Festival, 2013 San Diego's Funniest Person Contest, and 2012 Rock Star Energy Drink Comedy Throwdown. In 2011, he released his first comedy CD, Naked Cartwheels, and has successfully sold it online and out of the trunk of his Honda Civic.

5 Dates in 7 Days (Block Price):$1,050 + SLR
Contract On-Site Discount:..... N/A

Afghani-Pakistani comedian Feraz Ozel provides crowds with a diverse and energetic brand of insightful comedy. Throughout his youth as the loveable fat kid, Feraz learned to see the humor in everything, even if he did have the biggest breasts in class and could see his toes only on a good day. Over the years, he lost the weight but kept the funny "guy next door" charm. In addition to comedy, Feraz is passionate about health and fitness and, as a certified trainer, gives fun and informative talks on exercise and wellness, but ... he still hates kale. Feraz was recently seen providing comedic relief on The Doctors on CBS and is a part of Ahmed Ahmed's Next Generation of Evil comedy tour. He won the Funzine Comedy Competition in Budapest, Hungary, and was a finalist in San Diego's Funniest Person competition.

Lakin is a young singer/songwriter with a voice sweeter than honey, whose combination of genre-defying musical styles, stunning melodic gifts, beauty and warmth shine through in her heartfelt lyrics and powerful performances. She grew up in an entertainment-based family in Riverside, CA, and went on to major in jazz studies at Long Beach State. Lakin has cultivated a loyal fan base throughout Southern California, opening for such major acts as Sheryl Crow, Colbie Caillat, Brian McKnight, Sheila E. and Gladys Knight. On her excellently received album, If Night Turns to Daylight, Lakin displays her multiple talents of writing, performing, arranging and producing. Her striking collection of songs represents a revolution of the spirit—reflecting themes that go beyond the superficial and into the deeper human experience of the reconciliation of the soul. Lakin's music is sure to penetrate not only the listener's ear, but the listener's heart.

Born and raised in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia, Mitch Clark never sang, nor touched an instrument while growing up. He was a golfer. Even went to college to study just that, golf! While there, the recruiter for the golf program handed him his old guitar and said, "Take this home and learn to play it, and sing with it. I hear something in your voice." Mitch did just that and has never looked back. He made his public playing debut in the summer of 2013, made his college debut in the spring of 2014, and was selected to showcase at five college conferences this past fall. His voice, charm, unique twist on songs, beatboxing, and his ear for creating medleys and mashups has begun turning the heads of everyone in the college market. "I feel beyond blessed. Thank you all for helping me live out this dream. I hope to help others realize college is your time to dream it, and DO IT."

An accomplished singer-songwriter and guitarist, Nelson Emokpae, also known as "Nelly," originally hails from Nigeria, Africa. He has drawn on his multi-cultural background and experiences to tell his story in music and lyrics. His skillful blend of soul, reggae and blues, coupled with infectious hook lines and tremendous vocal abilities, transport the listener into the musical story being told. Nelson has been compared to the likes of Seal and Sting, with a little John Mayer thrown in as he mixes a little calypso, a little Afro-beat and a lot of soul into a winning and charming style that is always a crowd pleaser. His journey has so far been very complex, including an appearance on NBC's Season 3 of The Voice, but he has found a better way; his story will be crafted into melodies and dressed up with some lyrics and rhymes and played for you!

LECTURE SHOWCASE

FEATURING TIMELY AND PROVOCATIVE ISSUES, this showcase gives lecturers 15 minutes each for their presentations. Attractions are listed in alphabetical order, not in the order in which they will appear. Alternates are listed in priority order, in the event that any of the lecturers are unable to appear. Lecturers may not necessarily list Block Booking pricing. For the attractions listed, all Block Booking pricing categories include the base contract fee and any additional expenses required [sound, lights, room, meals and/or travel], unless otherwise noted. When Andrew Jenks was 19, he moved into a nursing home and documented what life is like when you are near the end. What began as a low-budget summer project turned into a feature documentary that went on to premiere on HBO and play in theaters around the world. As he received emails and letters from viewers who profoundly related to the seniors in the film, he couldn't help but think, "I want to tell the stories of my generation." On the lecture stage, the star of MTV's hit show World of Jenks discusses his experience living with a variety of young people, including a young man with autism, a radical animal rights activist, a previously convicted rapper and an addicted poker player and challenges students to broaden their horizons by knocking down conventional stereotypes and seeking out worlds that are foreign to them.

5 Dates in 7 Days [Block Price]:$1,900 + SLR
Contract On-Site Discount:N/A

After college, Andy Stoll set off on a four-year, 40-country solo trip around the world. He went in search of experiences far off the beaten path to get a better understanding of how the world works. He handed out micro-loans in China, played a 19th Century British soldier in a Bollywood movie, worked in a dress factory in Bangkok for 60 cents an hour, lived in a mud hut village in Zambia, and climbed Mt. Kilimanjaro with 10 Tanzanian street kids. Andy's message to students is clear: the distance between who you are and who you want to become is closer than you think. Andy's presentation is much more than a travel slideshow; it's an insightful, inspiring, entertaining and often hilarious look at what it takes to find your place in the world. Andy's insight will help you achieve your biggest dreams, whether that's traveling the world or closer to home.

ASH BECKHAM: GIVE VOICE TO YOUR TRUTH

3 Dates in 5 Days [Block Price]:$3,400 + SLRT
5 Dates in 7 Days [Block Price]:$3,300 + SLRT
Contract On-Site Discount:See Exhibitor

With an arresting blend of urgency and humor, Ash takes on topics like the crippling experience of being trapped in a closet, the difference between tolerance and acceptance, and the need to remove the word "gay" as a pejorative from our lexicon. With wildly funny and poignant stories, and a tough yet deeply compassionate stance, Ash tells us how to take off the armor and be our authentic selves. Ash declares to her audiences, "Hard is Hard. There is no Harder. There is only Hard." Rather than serving up candy-coated optimism, her stories offer listeners something more tangible, elevating them beyond empathy into the realm of personal discovery, and challenging every listener to take personal responsibility for creating a much bigger societal shift. Ultimately, Ash advocates for FREEDOM. Freedom to give voice to your truth, freedom to love without limits, freedom to be the person you were intended to be.

Beverly Gooden is an author, domestic violence awareness activist, and the creator of the viral Twitter hashtag, #WhyIStayed. Gooden challenges the question, "Why did she/he stay?" and reveals how the current way we interact with survivors of domestic violence is not helping to solve the crisis. In her speeches, she shares the most important questions to ask victims and outlines how we can all help. A victim of domestic violence herself, Gooden earned a BA in communications from Hampton University (VA) and an MA in social justice from Loyola University Chicago (IL). She now speaks about domestic violence sensitivity, social justice and the power of storytelling. Gooden's story has been profiled on Good Morning America and CNN, in TIME, The Washington Post, and on HLN, Inside Edition, and more. Her writing has appeared on NBC's Today.

On Dec. 14, 2012, in Sandy Hook Elementary School, first grade teacher Kaitlin Roig endured one of the worst tragedies the world has ever seen. She is credited with saving the lives of all her 15 students by acting, upon hearing the sounds of gunfire, and locking them all in a small bathroom until the "good guys" came. Kaitlin has made a choice to focus on the positive and in making sure that day didn't define her or her students. She has started a non-profit organization, Classes 4 Classes, Inc., to teach children to care about one another. In 2013, she received the Glamour Woman of the Year and L'Oreal Woman of Worth awards. She has been featured in People, Glamour, Marie Claire and Cosmopolitan, highlighting her work, all due to the choice she made—you can let the pain define you or you can define your own path.

Kyle Cease Presents: Evolving Out Loud. In Evolving Out Loud, Kyle works on himself by speaking to the public about what he is learning, as he is learning it right there. Kyle speaks on ways to let go, get out of your head, end stage fright, enhance relationships, accomplish what you want, play, make more money, and get into alignment with your own intention. As you watch Kyle go through his own transformation, you will discover ways to grow, too. Kyle Cease is an inspirational speaker, transforming audiences through his unique blend of comedy and motivation. Following his successful Comedy Central Hour Special, Weirder, Blacker, Dimpler, and a #1 ranking on the network's Standup Showdown, Kyle began speaking at colleges, universities, summits and Fortune 500 conferences about his use of comedy to overcome life's obstacles.

Matt Glowacki's Diversity According to South Park & Family Guy is one of the most booked diversity programs on college campuses, and in 2010 and 2014, he won Best Diversity Artist from Campus Activities Magazine. Matt teaches three different topics of diversity all in one program and uses clips from two of today's most popular television programs to tie it all together. The cartoon branding brings in the students and the real-life references and examples drive home his ideas. This fun and high-paced experience into diversity is like nothing else out there. You've never watched television like this before. Program goals: • Teach diversity in a non-threatening and relevant manner by using current media references/pop culture references. • Introduce the benefits of engagement as a way to fight apathy on campuses. • Attune viewers to a higher level of understanding of how the media portrays stereotypes about diversity.

Natalie Randolph has seen and done it all. As the only woman in America to coach a boy's high school varsity football team, she is a former professional athlete herself and a highly accomplished high school science teacher. With a unique vantage point on the challenges of inner-city education, Natalie has navigated through indifferent educational bureaucracies, brought parents closer to the process of nurturing focus and commitment in at-risk kids, and developed motivation and trust in kids too often overlooked or discarded in our educational system. Incredibly, she managed to achieve a remarkable 100% graduation rate from her players, every one of whom was accepted by a college or university. Natalie's observations, insights and unique tools of the trade inspire audiences concerned about education and overcoming the long odds that our low-income high school students face on a daily basis.

Based on the documentary film What Matters?, three young men in their 20s—two idealistic activists, one skeptic—looking for meaning in their lives set out to examine the injustice of extreme poverty in the world. Living on $1.25 per day, they traveled through three continents. The adventure turned disastrous when two of them survived a deadly plane crash in Africa and fought to finish what they started. Dan, David and Rob will make the case that this generation can have a profound impact on the issues that break their hearts. Using personal stories, humor and facts, they will engage your audience with their mission to "connect those who need something to live for with those who just need something to live." On campus, they do a film screening, then host extensive post-film discussion. Only Dan will be showcasing—Dan, David and Rob will come to each campus!

Kelly and Becca are the co-founders of One Student, a national non-profit organization that provides students and their allies with programs, resources and opportunities to address sexual violence. In response to the epidemic of campus sexual violence, the White House created a task force to protect students from sexual assault on campus and aims to collaborate with partners and campuses nationwide in an effort to eradicate the issue. Kelly Addington and Becca Tieder were honored to be called to Washington to serve as experts for the task force and share their experience, provide best practices and useful tools. Kelly and Becca share their personal story with sincerity and humor and address the realities of sexual assault in a way that inspires people to take action. They treat men and women as allies while focusing on the importance of communication, personal responsibility and bystander prevention to reduce sexual assault.

MINDS OPEN - CELL PHONES ON. COCA Speaker of the Year (the Canadian version of NACA) Daniel Packard, shares his own hilarious love stories to entertainingly show people how to get more of what they want in relationships. This is not a typical lecture! This is a fun, interactive experience that shows students how to be more open, confident and go after the love they want. Audiences use their cell phones to confidentially share their innermost thoughts and secrets via live interactive texting and polling (which you will see at the showcase). This creates an anonymous, revealing, myth-busting, joyride that inspires people to be more honest and confident. Students will learn:

- How to not care what anybody thinks of them.
- How to meet people without using alcohol.
- How to be confident and fearless.
- Understand that nice guy and horny guy ... is the SAME GUY!

Not many 20-somethings know what it's like to work for the President of the United States, let alone write his speeches. Jon Lovett did just that—as a speechwriter for President Barack Obama. For three years, Jon drafted speeches on a range of public policy issues and crafted jokes, including material used by the President at the annual White House Correspondents Dinner. Before serving in the White House, Jon was chief speechwriter to then-Senator Hillary Clinton, working both on her presidential campaign and in her Senate office. Jon brought Capitol Hill to Hollywood, as the co-creator, executive producer and head writer for the NBC sitcom 1600 Penn. He is currently a producer on the award-winning HBO series The Newsroom, starring Jeff Daniels and Jane Fonda. With his unique viewpoint, Jon gives audiences an insider perspective on politics, humor, communications, and the absurd way things really work in Washington.

After 17 years as one of the most successful performers on the college campus scene, Christopher Carter began to notice that students were becoming increasingly skilled at interacting in the virtual world of the Internet, but less skilled at communicating in the real world. He realized that many of the non-verbal communication techniques he used in his show to create the illusion of mindreading could be used by students to communicate more effectively with their peers and professors. "Student Body Language" was born! "Student Body Language" is based on the idea that even in the age of the Internet, most students' success will depend upon skill in face-to-face human communication. His program is an exciting and fun exploration of how we communicate beyond words, teaching students how to be better listeners, correctly interpret the non-verbal signs others give off, and use their own body language to create the best possible impression every time.

As a 19-year-old sophomore at San Diego State University [CA], Jeremy went legally blind in just two months due to a rare genetic disorder he didn't know he had. Rather than dwelling on what happened to him, Jeremy focused on what he could still do and, at age 20, he won the 2010 World Blind Golf Championship. Jeremy's inspirational story engages the audience, demonstrating that in life we all face tough times. In school, with our organizations, we're all going to face these obstacles, but it's how we approach these challenges in life that determines our happiness. As a recent college graduate, Jeremy's proximity in age helps engage the audience because he truly speaks their language. Jeremy was featured on ABC's 20/20 in an episode called "My Strange Affliction" and on MTV's hit series True Life in an episode called "True Life: I'm Losing My Sight."

It's no secret that Nicole Kelly, Miss Iowa 2013, was born without her left forearm, but she has never allowed that to hold her back. In her presentation "Changing Stereotypes," Nicole takes the concept of her current life situation—"pageant queen" and "disability"—and challenges the ideas and perceptions of what it means to be labeled as such, thus encouraging individuals to ask questions and think outside of the box, and to start thinking outside the idea of "titles." She also loves teaching willing boys how to walk correctly in five-inch heels and a swimsuit. #addedhilariousbonus

You may recognize Amber as the pink-haired interpreter whose interpretation of Kendrick Lamar during Lollapalooza went viral last year. That interpretation has been shared millions of times on Twitter, Tumblr and Vine. She became a crowd favorite and was sought out by various people to find out about who she is and what she does. You can see more about that experience online during her interview with W. Kamau Bell on Totally Biased, as well as on Yahoo's Daily Shot with Ali Wentworth. She also was featured in Rolling Stone magazine. Even cooler was her appearance on Jimmy Kimmel Live in Sign Language Rap Battle, featuring special guest Wiz Khalifa. Amber found her true "calling" was lecturing. She stays busy interpreting concerts and music festivals in myriad genres. Passion, dedication, integrity and continual skill development are attributes that Amber instills in her students, but traits she demands from herself.

Five friends and brothers from Kansas City taking up traditional folk instruments to write heart-felt, powerful, and catchy music. Tunes that practically carry you down the road, melodies that remind you of home, lyrics you can almost touch, and a message of hope to heal a hurting heart. Attic Wolves' new single, "Here's to Looking Back", has been selected by Ben Jaffe (Preservation Hall Jazz Band) as winner of the 2014 Roots N Blues N BBQ Festival John Lennon Songwriting Contest. The JLSC award is the latest on a growing list of accolades for the Richardson/Heavilin songwriting team and the Attic Wolves, collectively. Their debut EP, Carry Us On, was voted Best Local Album of 2012 by readers of Pitch Magazine in Kansas City. In 2013, the band launched a series of self-booked regional tours, logging over 12,000 miles across 10 states and reaching from Cleveland to San Diego.

Vocalist/performer Bryce Vine encapsulates the best of both coasts. This indie pop-rap phenomenon was born in a humble apartment in NYC and moved to LA in high school. He exudes the honesty of an East Coaster and the laissez-faire vibes of a So-Cal native who grew up just minutes from the beach. Bryce has developed a sound that is a keen blend of singable radio-friendly pop and laid back, in-the-cut hip-hop; a California brand of positivity mixed with the mantra, "You only live once." Bryce toured with pop-duo Karmin, joining them as the main support on the Pulses Tour last year and recently just returned from a 20-date national college headline tour, where he also performed with Big Sean and Sage the Gemini. Bryce brings an infectious vibe to the stage, easily getting even the most timid concertgoers to forget their inhibitions and join the party.

It's difficult to pinpoint exactly what DJ

Frank-DuX & tDOTace do in their performance. Imagine a DJ who sounds like a mixture of Jazzy Jeff, Kid Capri, and DJ AM. Now imagine a drummer who sounds like a mixture of Tommy Lee, Travis Barker, and Questlove. Now picture the short Mexicans that cut your yard. Open your eyes. Meet K.A.O.S. Their routine is not only modeled on, but is a tribute to the "Fix Your Face" routine that Travis Barker and DJ AM pioneered. Born and raised in the culturally diverse city of El Paso, TX, the duo's musical influences span across a wide spectrum. In a one-hour performance, you will hear anything from Top 40 pop to classic rock to hip-hop to salsa to children's theme music blended in such a way to give you that "did that just happen?" moment over and over again.

Born on the banks of the Missouri river, Larry spent his childhood fighting flood waters, snakes and coyotes on the Midwestern plains. The rest of his days he spent battling his 20 siblings and cousins for space and food in a two-bedroom house. As a youngster, Larry had numerous encounters with the law but straightened out and received a scholarship to law school. Bored by legalese, he quit school and took a job with the government. Bored by bureaucracy, he quit and made a bee-line to Los Angeles to pursue his dream—stand-up comedy. He knew the memories of his youth were destined for the stand-up stage.

Sam Lee is one of those rare voices that will make a permanent impact on the modern American music landscape. A rocking singer-songwriter native to Denver, CO, he now makes his home in Nashville, TN. The Denver Westword says, "Dude puts his money where his mouth is: he's got some incredibly powerful vocal chops and he belts with considerable conviction Fortunately, he's also got a knack for penning upbeat, catchy tunes." Sam's songs carry heavy doses of classic Americana-rock influences; from the rollicking, rolling drive-along songs to the soulful, stripped-naked ballads and the bombastic rock-belters. With anthemic choruses and clever, honest lyrics, Sam Lee is burning down the house. In 2013, he released a full-length album, Raise Your Flag, which charted as high as #20 on college and AAA radio stations nationwide.

Cloudwalkers blends the sophisticated vocal harmonies of college a cappella with soulful acoustic pop instrumentals. The L.A.-based foursome pays homage to the rich group singing of bands like Mumford and Sons and carries on The Beatles' tradition of playful audience interaction and boyish charm. "We're all songwriting musicians who really enjoy rock, and we also loved being in college vocal groups. When we graduated, the obvious choice was to start a band that fed both cravings," says drummer and baritone James Adams. The group currently tours colleges around the US on a rich slate of fun, catchy originals and covers to which everyone can sing along. If you like shopping at Trader Joe's, protecting defenseless animals, or perhaps falling in love when you should be wine tasting, then Cloudwalkers' music is for you.

With the release of their sophomore album, Leaves, Sidewalk Chalk continues to lead the contemporary evolution of hip-hop, soul, and jazz. Leaves was the #1 most-added record to CMJ's Hip Hop in February. The band's roots are firmly planted in Chicago, where all eight members bring their respective talents together. The group's unique arrangement allows them to incorporate numerous styles seamlessly: an MC and female vocalist; a trio of keys, bass and drums; a horn section with trombone and trumpet; and a tap-dancer. With their electrifying live show, Sidewalk Chalk has shared stages with ?uestlove, De La Soul, Action Bronson, Jean Grae, and more, and was named Most Outstanding Group at the 2012 Chicago Music Awards. Their recent album was praised by Lupe Fiasco, was featured in The Chicago Tribune, Afropunk, Okayplayer, and Relix Magazine, and featured a 40-date coast-to-coast album release tour.

Nilu is a singer-songwriter and multi-instrumentalist from Southern California who draws visions from classical, soul, chamber, Persian and rock music to create a compelling chamber pop soundscape that has one foot in her classical training and another in the rock and soul music she continues to discover. Nilu's musical inspirations include a diverse set of artists that influence her sound: "I'm obsessed with the impressionistic and romantic eras and the composers that define them like Debussy and Chopin, the simplicity yet complexity of minimalist Phillip Glass and the way he uses strings, the deeply impacting songwriting of Radiohead, the power behind Lauryn Hill's voice and words, the intimate piano compositions of Javād Maroufi, and the sensitivity and electricity that emanates from rockers Mutemath. I love them all. Their work is timeless and inspires my own compositions."

Blending musical heritage with contemporary influence can create a revolution. The Virginia natives—Rachel Beauregard hails from Haymarket and Bryan Dawley from Leesburg—grew up surrounded by a rich diversity of gospel, blues, country, bluegrass and rock 'n' roll. They started writing songs together and realized performing them was something special. Bryan on banjo, mandolin and a variety of guitars, and Rachel with her sultry, powerful voice, found themselves playing shows up and down the East Coast. It wasn't long before the dynamic duo migrated west to Nashville in pursuit of a collaborative career in country music. They collected a catalog that evolved into their debut album with the help of Grammy® winning songwriter/producer Luke Laird. Hailed as a Best of What's Next act, Native Run is currently promoting their first single, "Good On You," and can be found touring the country on David Nail's I'm A Fire Tour.

Shane Romero is an artist out of Bedstuy Brooklyn. He's got a sharp tongue when it comes to his poetry. Shane started attacking venues like a set of flying knives at the tender age of 16. His poetry is a reflection of his personal life, what he sees on a daily basis. In his writings, he takes a direct shot, addressing issues of the inner city—race, violence, the uphill battle of love, and his efforts of bettering himself. He hopes to touch everyone within earshot of his story, hoping they can relate, hoping, perhaps, to help someone who may be going through similar situations.

Captivating vocals are combined with progressive instrumentals, allowing The Speedbumps to attract fans of rock, folk, jazz and even classical music. Their approachable tunes with meaningful lyrics have earned an IMA award, been featured on PBS TV's Road Trip Nation and became the musical score for the feature film Molly's Girl. The Speedbumps have shared the stage with Amos Lee, Matt Nathanson, OKGO, Crosby Stills & Nash, Chrissie Hynde, Andrew Bird, and Red Wanting Blue. They have recorded three albums, which have received attention from some of the music industry's brightest tastemakers. Erin Gellert of Q Prime Music [The Black Keys, Nickle Creek, Joshua Radin] said, "In the era of auto-tune and single-based artists, The Speedbumps give you a reason to believe in the album again. Organic, brilliant, emotive music."

Viktoria Grimmey was born into a circus family and her circus legacy goes back five generations. Born in Ukraine, and now living in NYC, Viktoria has quite the résumé. Most recently, she was featured in the Tony Award-winning revival of Pippin on Broadway. She has toured with Britney Spears' World Circus Tour, Big Apple Circus, Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey, and many more. If you think you recognize her, you just might. She has been featured in many national commercials and had a featured role in the film Burlesque. In just the past year, Viktoria was seen on The Late Show with David Letterman, the Tony Awards and Good Morning America. Viktoria is most known for her aerial performances, hula hoop act, handstands and contortion. When Viktoria is hired for an event, she brings her own 18-foot aerial rig, many acts, and the most beautiful costumes!

5 Dates in 7 Days (Block Price):.....$1,000 + RT

Contract On-Site Discount:..... N/A

"The KAPOW Show!" features Evan Young's silly, yet somewhat subversive, wit and rapport with a live audience, and mixes it with the legitimately impressive skills he picked up at his time attending a European circus school. His performing career over the last 13 years has been unusually diverse and has taken him to almost all of the United States, on just about every type of stage, and in front of just about every type of audience. He even occasionally gets to go overseas! Being a showoff is a good thing if you do it well, and Evan totally nails it.

Mike "da Roving Guy" is a latex folding entertainment technician (OK, he ties balloons!). Actually, he is one of the country's best balloon artists, with creations limited only by your imagination. Margaret is truly an artiste. With her freehand style (no stencil), each piece she creates is literally an original work of art. She can do "Art on You" body art on any body part or air brush art-on T-shirts, trucker hats or pillow cases. She is also a henna artist. Together, they are a husband/wife novelty team who are amazingly fast, reliable, and quite adaptable to any situation. They are the perfect complement to your fair or festival. Since they appeal to all ages, they are perfect for parents' weekend, spring flings or back-to-school events.

King Courteen is from the Midwest, but is expanding out on the road, taking his original songs along. His sound is influenced by various artists such as Bon Iver, King Krule, Bob Dylan and Beach House. Inspiration for his songs come from the historic city that he lives in and his upbringing, which was deeply rooted in the church. You want to catch this rising star. The brought-to-life lyrical content in his songs, backed by a range of vocal artistry, will make you want to see King Courteen live.

In addition to being the gravelly voiced lead singer, righteous songwriter, and experimental guitarist for award-winning New Hampshire based reggae/rock/dubtronica band Roots of Creation, Brett Wilson is now establishing his solo career. Wilson's soulful vocals, conscientious lyrics, and skillful guitar work are pulled into the spotlight in this acoustic setting. A Brett Wilson solo performance is both energizing and easy going, reducing stresses, worries and negativities, while inspiring camaraderie that makes you want to get up and move. Wilson not only shines on stage but brings a cool, calm and collected vibe that isn't normally seen at rock performances. His unexpected covers allow for exploration into a genre that Brett manipulates, creating unique and never-before-heard arrangements. Mixing an upbeat stage presence while covering top 40 hits takes Brett Wilson to a whole other level.

Chris James is a British-American comedian making his mark in Hollywood today. He not only conquered standup in the UK comedy scene, but owned the South Africa comedy scene, as well, before coming to the States. You have seen this former model on Buffy the Vampire Slayer, as well as the lead in his own award-winning short film, Master Dread. Most recently, you have seen him on VH1's Single Ladies. Chris's YouTube videos total over 1 million views. He has performed at over 50 colleges and universities in just the last two years and is known for his 100% clean college-friendly set. When he's not performing at colleges, you can now find him performing all over Los Angeles and New York at the hottest comedy clubs.

After only six months of performing, Daniel Tirado was invited to play at the world-renowned Montreal Just for Laughs Festival in 2005. In 2010, Daniel was welcomed back, appearing in a televised gala in the French division of the festival, "Juste Pour Rire," making him one of the very few comedians to work the event in both languages. The following year, in collaboration with JFL, Daniel was featured on a Spanish comedy special, OMNI Presents Bilingual Stand-Up, which aired across Canada on the OMNI TV network, making it his third appearance at the festival. In 2013, Daniel made his American television debut showcasing his talent on AXS TV's Gotham Comedy Live and was selected to perform as one of the top 10 finalists on StandUp NBC. Daniel now lives in New York and performs regularly at some of the most prestigious clubs in the city.

Opeyemi "Ope" Olagbaju may be a young comic, but his love and commitment to stand-up can always be seen on stage. The O.C./L.A. comic has been seen performing at various clubs (Irvine Improv, Ontario Improv, Brea Improv, Spectacles Theater, Flappers) and colleges throughout Southern California. He has also performed in the 2014 Washington Comedy Festival and the 2014 Bridgetown Comedy Festival. Ope has been noted for his observational humor and being able to craft hilarity from his own personal experiences of being an immigrant who assimilated into American culture and society. His philosophy is that, "No matter where you're from, finding a way to laugh is a highly important component of the human experience and something we can all relate to. I'm just glad I have been given the opportunity to make people laugh and share in that experience."

Prashanth began his career at the age of 17, and went on to perform at world renowned comedy clubs such as New York Comedy Club, Stand Up New York, The Comic Strip, Zanies, and The Improv, all before he was old enough to get into them. With his material covering an expansive range based on his suburban roots, quick-witted banter about social conventions, the political atmosphere and racial tensions, with an added pinch of adolescent sarcasm, Prashanth is able to strike a chord that resonates with all audience members during his show. There's no question that Prashanth's comedy is raucous, it's rabble-raising, it's the comedic equivalent of yelling "fire" in a crowded theater—except legal and hilarious. After years of performing at colleges and clubs for audiences as small as three and as large as 3,500, Prashanth presents an act that is something you don't want to miss!

Fans describe Rebecca's sound as "soulful acoustic pop." A native Texan, she is now based out of Nashville. Rebecca's last single, "Far from Heaven," charted on FMOB's Top 40 AC charts. Her new single, "Breaking Free," is available on iTunes, Amazon, and other digital stores. Last year, Breedlove Guitars added Rebecca as one of their product-sponsored artists. She has been interviewed by Fox Morning News San Antonio, ABC News Memphis, and Nashville's WKDF FM, among others. Recently, Rebecca was chosen as featured artist of the week by MusicXray and Muzikreviews.com. She has played shows and festivals all over the country, including: Nissan's Taste of Music City, Ashland City Festival, the San Antonio Ford Holiday River Parade, and the Florida Music Festival. Rebecca writes her own material, plays guitar and keys, and co-produced her latest EP.

Taylor Tomlinson grew up in the suburbs of Southern California. The oldest of four daughters in a strict, religious household, she learned early on to combat her repression with humor. Her first set was performed in a creative writing classroom and almost certainly started with the phrase, "What's the deal with Girl Scout cookies?" She's performed at comedy clubs, churches, schools, corporate events, private parties, coffee shops, and other questionable, rented spaces all over California, opening for headliners like Karen Rontowski, Dat Phan and Michael Jr. Her self-deprecating charm and conversational wit have made her a favorite among audiences young and old, covering topics like insecurity, family and her discomfort around hot people. She was a finalist in the San Diego Comedy Festival, winner of the Flappers College Comedy Competition, and was recently awarded third in San Diego's Funniest Person Contest.

Brothers Ty and Trey are living their dream as professional musicians writing songs that strike an emotional chord with their listeners. They've learned a lot about writing and performing, but ultimately the goal has never changed. "We try to write songs that are honest and relatable," Trey shares. "One of the most beautiful things about writing songs is that it proves how connected all of us really are. We get messages all the time where people tell us that our songs 'say everything they are feeling but didn't know how to express.' To me it's really humbling because I've never met that person before and yet they are feeling the same feelings that we had when we wrote the song." The duo continues to pursue this passion of moving an audience. It's writing with that same purpose and passion that makes each of their albums feel new and unique.

Unknown Lyric—Jeremiah Turner on acoustic guitar and Kevin Grayson on violin—is an acoustic/classical/soul duo out of Atlanta, GA. Making instrumental music cool again and, ultimately, music as a whole, Unknown Lyric implements classical Beethoven with urban rhythms and grooves, creating a musical experience like none other. Unknown Lyric is a music group that harks back to the true age of musical composing. The arranging of notes in melodies and the formation of chords built on harmonies is the essence of Unknown Lyric. On Oct. 26, 2011, in a stunning performance, Unknown Lyric captivated the crowd and walked away with the Amateur Night at the Apollo Top Dog Grand Prize!
